An international photography competition that invites photographers worldwide to capture the essence of contemporary architecture. Inspired by the work of the famous Portuguese photographer Luis Ferreira Alves, the award seeks images that explore the dialogue between man and space.

The lens, an eye that probes reality. Architecture, a poem of volumes and light. And in between, the photographer, transforming matter into emotion. The "Luis Ferreira Alves Photography Award" is a journey of architectural discovery, an immersion in the depths of construction technique. It's a chance to reflect on the intimate dialogue between humanity and space, between form and perception. A soul that only the photographer's attentive eye can reveal.

The "Luis Ferreira Alves International Photography Competition | A Contemporary Look at Architecture" offers photographers worldwide a unique opportunity: to express their artistic vision of architecture, inspired by the lens of one of Portugal's most celebrated architectural photographers, Luis Ferreira Alves. Emerging visionaries will take up the mantle, scrutinizing cities, exploring landscapes, and penetrating the essence of spaces with a gaze both objective and subjective, capable of documenting, interpreting, analyzing, and dreaming.

Luis Ferreira Alves Photography Award

This prestigious competition, dedicated to the great master whose lens immortalized the works of giants like Álvaro Siza Vieira and Eduardo Souto de Moura, challenges photographers to capture the soul of architectural spaces, exploring the union between documentary rigor and expressive freedom. The prize? Not just the glory of victory, but the opportunity to exhibit work, see it published in a curated catalog, and enter the heart of the cultural and academic debate. It's a career springboard supported by institutions like the Porto City Council, Casa da Arquitectura, and the Faculty of Architecture of the University of Porto, with the backing of giants like CIN, Canon, and BPI.

This is a unique opportunity, a tribute to photography as a tool for visual and cultural storytelling, and an invitation to participate in a global conversation inspired by the legacy of Luis Ferreira Alves. The Pictor.com platform awaits your submissions. Good luck!
